To Whom It May Concern:

Yering Station Winery has employed ElmSavers in its elm leaf beetle control program since 2002 to protect our significant and historic elms.

Steve Parton Director of ElmSavers has focused on canopy spraying, due to the large number of trees, the results of a correct balance of micro nutrients combined with insecticide has restored tree health to high levels.

The company has also wide experience with plant health issues and has recently devised and implemented a multi facet treatment program to combat and arrest the spread of fungal pathogens in some of our older trees.

Yering Station will gladly recommend ElmSavers as competent and professional in its duty in protecting high value and historic trees.
